Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 02 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Remaining cold; night frost for many and some wintry showers.

Today:
A frosty start for many inland. Showers continuing across coastal fringes, perhaps heavy, wintry where they run further inland this morning. An area of sleet or snow may affect parts of northern and central England later. Feeling cold everywhere.

Tonight:
Patchy sleet or snow across the Midlands and east Wales fading. Northwestern areas clear and frosty. Eastern areas seeing showers, perhaps heavy but mostly falling as rain away from hills.

Sunday:
Showers for many eastern and southern areas, heaviest towards eastern coasts but still largely of rain, just a few brighter spells. Northwest UK sees the lion's share of the sunshine.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Dry and sunny in the northwest with frost and freezing fog. Cloudier and windier elsewhere with wintry showers, most frequent in the east. Feeling cold, especially in the south.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.